A message from our Pastor

When was the last time you were seeking something?

Now there are two kinds of seeking. The first involves trying to find something that is lost or misplaced – think of your reading glasses or the car keys. We often say a quick prayer to St. Anthony and tear the house apart trying to find the item. When we do find it, we are relieved.

The second kind of seeking involves trying to find or obtain something incredibly valuable or dear to you. Perhaps a lost child in a big department store, that elusive gift that Santa's elves just didn't seem to make enough of for some reason or knowing that you just met "the one" with whom you want to share the rest of your life. When or if this "want" is attained, a feeling of elation washes over you! Oftentimes this kind of "find" is life changing; it makes you see things in a different light and makes you want to do things differently.

What if the thing we desired most was Jesus?

Zacchaeus just wanted to see the man called Jesus; not talk to him, not have him over for dinner, just see who he was as he passed by on the road. And that desire changed his life. When Jesus calls him out of the tree, Zacchaeus "received him with joy."

Our Lord looks for all those who are seeking Him – even if they do not know it themselves. As disciples, we are called to spread the Good News and find those who want to know Jesus. I don't think we have to look in sycamore trees around our towns, but I do think we need to reach out and find those who we don't see in church or at our gatherings anymore. Let's "look up" and encourage our family members, friends and neighbors who may be stuck out of shame or fear or doubt to seek Jesus. Let us through our joy in the Lord, help make room for the Holy Spirit to work in others' lives!

I wish everyone a safe and happy Halloween and look forward to celebrating the Feast of All Saints with you on Tuesday, November 1.

Fr. Tom May, Pastor

A message from our Associate Pastor

This Monday we celebrate Halloween. Philip Kosloski of Aleteia has more to say about this holiday. When most people think of Halloween, the first images that come to mind are children dressed up in scary costumes going door-to-door to collect candy from as many houses as possible. At the end of the night delighted kids empty their “loot” on the floor and begin the feasting that often ends up with a stomachache and a trip to the dentist not long after. What it evolved into in the United States, however, it is not how Halloween began.

The word “Halloween” is a Scottish shortening of the phrase “Allhallow-even,” literally meaning “All Holy Evening” and dates to the 18th century. The English have a similar phrase, “All Hallows’ Eve,” with the same meaning. Both words denote the night before All Saints Day, November 1, and refer to the celebration of the holy men and women who are recognized in the Catholic Church as residing in Heaven.

Pope Gregory III established the feast during the 8th century after consecrating a chapel named in honor of “All Saints” in Saint Peter’s Basilica. The feast was then extended to the universal Church by Pope Gregory IV and made into a holy day of obligation for all Catholics.

Along with its celebration, All Saints Day was given a special vigil Mass the night before (October 31), which led to that date being regarded by Catholics as a “holy evening.”

In addition to All Saints Day, the Church established November 2 as All Souls Day, dedicated to praying for the souls in purgatory. On this day Catholics pray for their deceased relatives and friends, visiting cemeteries to remember those who are no longer on this earth. It is with this celebration that many local traditions were created and became mingled with the festivities of All Hallows’ Eve when immigrants started establishing themselves in the United States.

In various cultures in Europe there developed a tradition of “souling” and baking “soul cakes” in honor of the faithful departed. These cakes were baked on All Hallows’ Eve and children would go out on All Saints Day and All Souls Day, begging door-to-door for these cakes in exchange for praying for deceased relatives and friends.

It is believed that in some places there was a tradition of wearing disguises while souling that represented the various souls in purgatory who were seeking these prayers. And of course, the processional candles were carried sheltered from the wind in hollowed-out gourds or turnips, call Jack O’Lanterns.

In France, the faithful created a danse macabre or “dance of the dead” that consisted of a representation of Death (typically a skeleton) leading a chain of individuals to the afterlife. The scene would often be brought to life on All Souls Day, where actors would put on costumes representing the different people in the chain.

Irish peasants developed an “All Damned Day” on October 31 to complement the All Saints and All Souls Day. The theory is that “if the souls in hell are left out when we celebrate those in heaven and purgatory, they might be unhappy enough to cause trouble.” The Irish then banged pots and pans on October 31 to make sure those in Hell knew they were not forgotten.

All of these different traditions revolving around All Saints and All Souls were mixed together in the United States when immigrants started to intermarry and combine customs. The celebration of Halloween spread throughout the country during the early 20th century and quickly became a secular community activity that was devoid of its Christian origins.

Businesses then recognized the profitability of the holiday and started to promote it in their advertisements, taking over the day in a similar way to the celebration of Christmas.

In the end, while the current activities of Halloween appear to have no Christian significance, they have deep Catholic roots and are meant to remind people of their own mortality and the need to pray for souls in purgatory.

Prayer of Generosity

"Lord Jesus, teach me to be generous. Teach me to serve as you deserve, To give and not to count the cost, To fight and not to heed the wounds, To labor and not to seek to rest, To give of myself and not ask for a reward, Except the reward of knowing that I am doing your will." - St. Ignatius of Loyola

Spirituality is the way we view the relationships we have with ourselves, other people, situations in our lives, and with God. We all have a spirituality, but it can change and develop over time. Our view of ourselves, others and God grow and develop from childhood to adulthood and often after a crisis.

Intimate partner violence breaks tender relationships and can turn us away from ourselves, our relationship with others and with God. Some people think they'll never trust another person. Hearing the abusive criticisms again and again until one doubts herself. "Am I crazy like he says I am?" "Am I such an awful person?" He calls me "stupid" and "incompetent."

If you need help, call the National Domestic Violence Hotline, 800-799-7233. Chat with a service provider and find the domestic violence services nearest you.

If you are in immediate danger, call 911.

RESPECT LIFE MONTH

We are called to reverence and love every human person as ourselves. It is our responsibility to care for and protect human life, especially the lives of the most vulnerable among us. Evangelium vitae teaches us that "the task of accepting and serving life involves everyone; and this task must be fulfilled above all towards life when it is at its weakest."

Pope John Paul II wrote, "the Gospel of God's love for man, the Gospel of the dignity of the person and the Gospel of life are a single and indivisible Gospel." The Gospel of Jesus is the Gospel of Life, and to love Jesus is to love and serve life. As followers of Christ, may we strive to continually respond to the needs of the poor and vulnerable entrusted to us by God.
